Interface & Family Action

All families and children experience crisis. Sometimes one or more crises may be going on at the same time. Families may be able to handle and resolve most of these problems quickly, but sometimes families have problems that push them to the limit.

These problems might include a child who:

often skips school, runs away from home (or threatens to), and/or a child who will not follow directions.

Interface Youth Program and Family Action can help you find ways to reduce or stop these kinds of behaviors.

Interface

Sometimes it is necessary for parents and children to have a break from each other. This “time out” can allow everyone a chance to calm down and gain perspective. Interface is a short-term youth shelter for children ages 10 to 17.

Parents, friends, teachers, social workers and police officers can all refer youth to Interface — youth may also refer themselves.

Interface is open 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. A child who is in need of services can come to our door both day and night. Once there, a trained staff member talks to the youth about their situation and explains how the program works. Youth who decide to stay can count on a safe place to sleep, food, clothing, and personal support. Trained staff also provide crisis stabilization, counseling, and help youth address short-term needs and long-term goals.

Youth in this program typically meet with a counselor three times a week and are also expected to participate in group activities and family counseling if possible. Youth are expected to attend school while at Interface, or to participate in the shelter Life Skills Program. While we target youth in our 11-county service area, any youth may be eligible to participate in our programs. All services are provided at no cost to youth or families— your participation is your payment!

Family Action

Family Action provides short-term counseling to families with children ages 6 to 17 who are ungovernable, truant, who runaway (or threaten to do so). Family Action is available 24-hours a day, every day, and is free of charge for all basic services.

Family Action begins with a simple screening process with the family to determine their eligibility and what programs would best serve the child. Next, a counselor sits down with the family to develop a plan together. This plan outlines the child’s needs, goals, the steps to reach goals, and the time it will take to accomplish each task.

Family Action can provide individual, group, and family counseling. The program can also refer participants to other programs and services.

Family Action is available to residents of Alachua, Bradford, Columbia, Dixie, Gilchrist, Hamilton, Lafayette, Levy, Putnam, Suwannee, and Union counties. This program has been shown to be an effective way to help at-risk youth and their families. In Family Action, we repair broken communications between parents and children and help youth make better choices.
